

About This Course

STCW 2010 requires all seafarers to receive basic safety training or instruction in accordance with section A-VI/1 of the STCW Code. The minimum requirements for familiarisation and basic safety training are contained within the Basic Safety Training Week (BSTW) and meet the appropriate standard of competence.

Course Components

Basic Safety Training Week (BSTW) is made up of four courses which meet the minimum STCW 2010 familiarisation and basic safety training requirements. You can complete all of the required courses as a 5 day package (BSTW) or each course can be booked individually.

Although it is not a mandatory part of the basic safety training programme, we have included the Proficiency in Security Awareness (PSA) course during this week at no extra cost for those who book the BSTW as a single programme.

Personal Safety and Social Responsibilities (PSSR)

A classroom-based course covering basic induction training in safety procedures and accident prevention. It also familiarises novices with the employment conditions and working environment on board.

Fire Prevention and Fire Fighting (FPFF)

Outlines precautions for minimising the risk of fire, the causes of fires and how to extinguish them. Also practical training using fire fighting equipment and breathing apparatus to extinguish various types and sizes of fires.

Personal Survival Techniques (PST)

Teaches the actions to be taken by individuals to protect themselves in emergency situations and includes practical training using life jackets and inflatable life rafts.

Elementary First Aid (EFA)

A combination of theory and practical training for basic first aid and life-saving skills.

Proficiency in Security Awareness (PSA)

Providing knowledge, understanding and proficiency to personnel intending to work on ships who will not have any designated security duties.

Certification

On successful completion of the courses, participants will receive certificates approved by the Liberian Registry, the world's largest quality registry.
